CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Çakır's clinical focus is the assessment and management of acute and urgent conditions presenting to the emergency department. His areas of expertise include trauma and emergency interventions, as well as environmental emergencies such as drowning and acute hypoxia.

A further area of his practice is the care of patients with insect bites and stings, including bee stings and tick bites. These presentations can range from mild local reactions to more serious systemic responses, and the emergency evaluation aims to identify the severity of the reaction and to decide on the appropriate immediate treatment and follow-up.
