CLINICAL FOCUS

The area of expertise listed for Dr. Candemir is preventive pediatric care. In general terms, this branch of pediatrics is concerned with keeping children healthy over time. It typically involves regular check-ups at age-appropriate intervals, monitoring of growth and development, and guidance for parents on matters that arise during infancy, childhood and adolescence.

Because preventive care is built around the individual child, the content of each visit depends on the child's age, history and current condition. Dr. Candemir reviews the information available about the child, examines the patient and discusses with the parents what follow-up may be appropriate.
