CLINICAL FOCUS

The conditions and procedures within Dr. Akman's area of expertise include trauma, burn treatment, and emergency interventions in general. In the emergency setting, this involves a structured initial assessment of the patient, stabilization where required, and a decision about whether further investigation, observation, or referral to another department is appropriate.

Dr. Akman also handles respiratory emergencies, including drowning-related acute hypoxia and airway obstruction, where prompt recognition and intervention are central. Environmental and envenomation emergencies form another part of his practice, in particular bee stings and tick bites.
