CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Altıparmak's practice spans both aesthetic and reconstructive plastic surgery. In aesthetic (cosmetic) surgery, the aim is to address the appearance of a part of the body in a way that reflects the patient's goals and anatomy. Whether a given procedure is appropriate is decided only after a clinical assessment and a discussion of what the operation involves, the expected recovery and the possible risks.

A specific subspecialty area for Dr. Altıparmak is the treatment of lymphedema, a chronic swelling that results from impaired lymphatic drainage. Patients with lymphedema are assessed to establish the likely cause and the stage of the swelling and to review any treatment they have already received, before the available options are discussed.
