CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Ercan's clinical work covers three main imaging modalities. Ultrasound imaging uses sound waves to produce real-time images of soft tissues and organs and does not involve ionizing radiation. Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) uses a magnetic field and radio waves to generate detailed cross-sectional images, and is frequently requested when soft-tissue detail is needed.

For international patients, imaging examinations of this kind are often part of a broader diagnostic pathway. Dr. Ercan's evaluation is imaging-focused: he reviews the clinical question raised by the referring team, assesses whether the available images are adequate, and reports his findings so that they can be considered alongside the patient's history, examination and laboratory results.
