CLINICAL FOCUS

Mehmet Güney Ziyalan's work centers on three listed areas. Psychological assessment involves structured interviews and, where appropriate, standardized instruments to describe a patient's current difficulties and functioning; the findings are used to inform the next steps and are interpreted within the wider clinical picture.

Whether assessment, psychotherapy or counseling is suitable, and which approach is used, depends on the individual situation and is discussed with the patient. Psychological care of this kind is often delivered alongside psychiatric care within the same unit.
