CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Tam's clinical work centers on emergency care and the management of urgent medical conditions. When a patient arrives with an acute problem, his first task is a rapid assessment: taking a focused history, examining the patient, and deciding which investigations are needed to clarify the situation. This process helps establish how urgent the condition is and what the immediate priorities should be.

Following the assessment, Dr. Tam provides initial treatment aimed at stabilizing the patient and addressing the presenting complaint. He also takes part in early care planning, which may include arranging further tests, referring the patient to a relevant specialty for ongoing management, or advising on follow-up after discharge from the Emergency Service.
