CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Koyuncu's practice involves inflammatory and allergic skin conditions. She evaluates and treats patients with urticaria, a condition marked by recurrent itchy wheals, and with contact dermatitis, in which the skin reacts to substances it has come into contact with.

Dr. Koyuncu also treats warts, which are common viral skin lesions, and performs gold needle application, a procedure used in dermatological practice. Whether a particular procedure is appropriate is decided after a clinical assessment, and patients are informed about what the procedure involves and what alternatives may be considered.
