CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Ömür's practice is the assessment of sleep disorders and snoring. Patients who are disturbed by loud snoring, interrupted breathing at night or unrefreshing sleep are evaluated for possible ear, nose and throat causes, including nasal obstruction and enlarged adenoids.

Dr. Ömür also sees patients with dizziness and vertigo, in whom the inner ear and the balance system are examined to help clarify the origin of the symptoms and to guide further management. In addition, he evaluates hoarseness and other changes in the voice, looking for conditions of the larynx and vocal cords that may require observation, medical treatment or further investigation.
