CLINICAL FOCUS

Mert Vural's clinical work falls under physical medicine and rehabilitation. In this setting a physiotherapist works with patients whose movement, function or daily activities have been affected by illness, injury or treatment. The starting point is an assessment of the patient's current condition and history, after which a rehabilitation program is planned according to the individual situation and adjusted as the patient...

The treatment of lymphedema is the subspecialty named on his profile and a listed area of his expertise. Lymphedema is a condition involving swelling, and its treatment is carried out within the rehabilitation setting. For patients considering assessment for lymphedema, the relevant medical history, any previous diagnoses and details of earlier treatment are important for planning.
