CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Bayramoğlu's work is trauma care. Patients who arrive after falls, road traffic accidents, sports injuries or other accidents are assessed for the extent and urgency of their injuries. The initial evaluation aims to identify conditions that need immediate attention, to stabilize the patient and to decide which further investigations or specialist input are required.

Dr. Bayramoğlu also has a particular interest in environmental emergencies. These include drowning and near-drowning events, acute hypoxia (a sudden shortage of oxygen reaching the body's tissues) and airway obstruction, all of which require prompt recognition and support of breathing and circulation.
