CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Shammoot's areas of clinical interest reflect the everyday work of an emergency department. He evaluates patients with acute chest pain, where the aim is to identify potentially serious causes early and arrange appropriate tests and follow-up.

His procedural work includes wound care and suturing, the management of fractures and dislocations, and cardiopulmonary resuscitation. He also manages allergic reactions and anaphylaxis, which may require immediate treatment and observation, and assesses patients presenting with fever or suspected infection.
