CLINICAL FOCUS

The work of the Emergency Service is built around emergency evaluation: a structured, time-sensitive assessment of a patient's condition at the moment of arrival. In this setting, Dr. Yıldız takes a focused history, examines the patient and orders the tests that are appropriate to the presenting complaint so that the likely cause can be identified and the level of urgency can be established.

A second area of his practice is urgent medical care, which covers the immediate treatment given to patients whose condition cannot wait for a scheduled appointment. This may include monitoring vital signs, starting initial therapy and deciding whether a patient can be treated and discharged or should be admitted for further observation.
