CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Çetingüç assesses and treats adults with a range of mood, anxiety, trauma-related and personality-related conditions. His areas of expertise include post-traumatic stress disorder, bipolar disorder and anxiety disorders. He also works with patients who have personality disorders, including borderline personality disorder and dependent personality disorder.

Care in these conditions typically begins with a detailed psychiatric assessment of the patient's symptoms, history and previous treatments, after which the options are discussed with the patient. The course of care is decided individually, based on the clinical picture and the patient's circumstances.
