CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Ergül's areas of expertise include Kawasaki disease, upper respiratory tract illnesses in children, constipation in children, urinary incontinence in children and hematuria in children. She also evaluates and follows children with iron deficiency and anemia and addresses general child and adolescent health.

In infants, her work covers lactose intolerance, infant colic and infant gas pain. Assessment in these areas typically involves a review of the child's history and symptoms together with a clinical examination, and the approach is adapted to the child's age and individual findings.
