CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Demirhan's areas of expertise include the imaging assessment of breast diseases, with mammography and ultrasonographic imaging as core methods and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) used where appropriate. He works with computed tomography (CT) in a range of settings, including multidetector CT colonography, also referred to as virtual colonoscopy, which is a CT-based method of examining the large bowel.

In the field of interventional radiology, Dr. Demirhan uses imaging to guide minimally invasive procedures. The choice of imaging method or intervention depends on the individual clinical question, the findings on prior examinations and a discussion with the referring physician. Not every technique is suitable for every patient, and Dr.
