CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Küçücük's areas of expertise cover head and neck cancers, breast cancer and gastrointestinal oncology, as well as cancer oncology in general. For patients with head and neck tumors, she is involved in the evaluation of the diagnosis and the discussion of radiation-based options; further information is available on the neck cancer treatment page.

Her procedural focus is on radiotherapy and brachytherapy. Radiotherapy delivers radiation to a defined target area from outside the body, whereas brachytherapy places a radiation source close to or inside the tissue being treated. Whether one of these approaches, or a combination, is appropriate can only be assessed after a careful review of imaging, pathology results and previous treatments, and any recommendation is...
