CLINICAL FOCUS

The first of Dr. Üstün's listed areas is reconstructive surgery. In general terms, reconstructive procedures are performed to restore the form or function of tissue that has been affected by injury, disease, a congenital difference or earlier surgery.

Her second listed area is aesthetic surgery, meaning procedures undertaken to change a feature of appearance rather than to treat an illness. In this area, the discussion with the patient usually centres on what the patient hopes to change, whether that expectation is realistic, the patient's health status, and the possible risks and recovery period of any procedure.
