CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Bölükbaşı's work is preventive and developmental follow-up. She provides newborn follow-up in the first weeks of life, arranges and interprets newborn screening tests and treats neonatal jaundice when it is identified.

She also evaluates and manages common pediatric complaints. These include infant colic, upper respiratory tract infections in children, and iron deficiency and anemia in children. Where a problem falls outside general pediatrics, she can indicate whether an assessment by another specialty may be appropriate.
