CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Sezgin's areas of expertise are clinical biochemistry, medical biochemistry, clinical laboratory medicine and laboratory diagnostics. As a laboratory physician, her role is to support the clinical teams who care for patients directly: laboratory results contribute to the assessment of a patient's condition, to the follow-up of known...

In practice, this means that international patients who are treated at the hospital may have laboratory investigations requested by their treating physician, with the results interpreted in the context of the patient's history and other findings.
