CLINICAL FOCUS

The clinical work of Dr. Ölmez is centered on cancer. As a medical oncologist, he is involved in the assessment of patients with a cancer diagnosis and in the planning and delivery of medical cancer treatment. His earlier training in internal medicine and radiology forms part of the background he brings to this work, which typically includes reviewing the patient's history, existing imaging and previous treatments before...

Each patient's situation is assessed individually. The type of cancer, its extent and the treatments already received are considered when discussing how medical oncology care may proceed. Where questions fall outside the scope of medical oncology, patients may be referred to other departments within the hospital.
