CLINICAL FOCUS

Emergency medical assessment involves evaluating a patient's condition when they present with a sudden illness or injury. This typically includes taking a focused history, performing a clinical examination and deciding which investigations are needed and how urgently.

Emergency care covers the treatment provided after this initial assessment, ranging from stabilizing a patient to managing symptoms and treating the underlying problem where this can be addressed in an emergency setting. Care coordination is the third element of Dr. Bayındır's work. Patients seen in an emergency setting may need to be referred to other specialists, admitted for further treatment or followed up as outpatients.
