CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Özbayburtlu's work centers on diagnostic imaging. In mammography, she reports X-ray-based examinations of the breast that are used to evaluate breast tissue and to help characterize findings that may need further assessment. In computed tomography (CT), she interprets cross-sectional images of different regions of the body, which can be used to assess anatomy and to look for or follow up changes identified clinically or...

She also reports X-ray imaging, which remains a common first examination for the chest, bones and joints, and performs and interprets ultrasonographic imaging, an examination without ionizing radiation that is frequently used to evaluate soft tissues and organs.
