CLINICAL FOCUS

Renan Güneş provides dietary assessment and nutrition planning for people whose medical condition affects, or is affected by, what they eat. In iron deficiency nutrition, she reviews dietary intake and advises on food choices that may support iron status alongside the care provided by the treating physician.

Her practice also covers child and adolescent weight management, where nutrition plans are adapted to a young patient's growth, daily routine and family setting. For adults, she works on gout nutrition, which typically involves reviewing dietary factors that can influence uric acid levels, and on cardiovascular disease nutrition, which...
