CLINICAL FOCUS

Intensive care treatment is the core of Dr. Şahin's practice. This involves the continuous assessment and management of patients with serious or unstable conditions, including monitoring of vital functions, support of breathing and circulation where needed, and adjustment of treatment as the patient's condition changes.

Advanced life support is a further area of her expertise. This covers the structured, time-critical interventions used when a patient's heart or breathing fails, and the stabilization measures that follow. Dr. Şahin also has a clinical interest in palliative care, which focuses on relieving symptoms and maintaining comfort and dignity for patients with advanced illness.
