CLINICAL FOCUS

A substantial part of Dr. Umman's practice concerns blood pressure and blood lipid disorders. He evaluates and manages hypertension (high blood pressure) as well as hypotension (low blood pressure), both of which may require careful history-taking, measurement, and, where indicated, further cardiovascular assessment.

Dr. Umman additionally assesses heart murmurs, which may be detected during a clinical examination and can prompt further evaluation to clarify their cause and significance. He carries out pacemaker assessment for patients who have an implanted device or for whom the question of a pacemaker has been raised, and he performs angiography as part of the diagnostic evaluation of the heart and its vessels.
