CLINICAL FOCUS

Seda Akcan works with children who present with learning difficulties, attention and concentration problems, and school adjustment difficulties. She carries out developmental assessments of children in order to understand a child's current level of functioning and to identify areas where support may be needed.

Her therapeutic work includes play therapy, which is used with younger children as a way of approaching emotional and behavioral concerns, and child and adolescent psychotherapy for older children and teenagers. She also supports adolescents experiencing exam anxiety and offers social skills development support for children and adolescents who have difficulty in peer relationships or group settings.
