CLINICAL FOCUS

The core of Dr. Demirkiran's practice is general pediatric care. In this role, he evaluates children who present with health concerns, takes a careful history from the family, examines the child and discusses the findings and possible next steps with parents or guardians. Where further assessment is needed, he explains what this may involve so that families can make informed decisions about their child's care.

Dr. Demirkiran also provides pediatric preventive care and well-child care. These visits are intended for children who are not acutely unwell and are designed to review a child's general health and address questions that parents may have about their child's well-being.
