CLINICAL FOCUS

Her work centers on personalised nutrition planning and diet planning. A nutrition plan is developed on the basis of the individual patient's clinical situation, treatment plan and dietary needs, and is intended to complement the care provided by the treating medical team rather than replace it.

Semra Pehlivan also focuses on clinical nutrition, which addresses the nutritional needs of patients during illness, treatment and recovery. This includes enteral nutrition, in which nutrients are delivered through the digestive tract, for example by a feeding tube, and parenteral nutrition, in which nutrients are given intravenously...
