CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Deniz's practice is healthy-child follow-up: routine visits at which growth, feeding, development and general health are reviewed over time. Within this framework she evaluates growth and developmental disorders in children, where the aim is to identify a possible cause and to plan further assessment or follow-up as...

Dr. Deniz diagnoses and treats childhood infectious diseases. These include upper respiratory tract infections in children, croup and scarlet fever. Management depends on the child's age, symptoms and examination findings, and in many cases involves guidance for parents on what to watch for at home and when a re-evaluation is advisable.
