CLINICAL FOCUS

The clinical practice of Dr. Güleç is oriented toward children and adolescents. Preventive care includes fluoride applications and fissure sealants, which are intended to protect teeth that are at risk of decay. When decay or damage is already present, he provides dental fillings and, where a tooth cannot be preserved, tooth extraction.

His areas of expertise further include the management of tooth root infection and root canal treatment for both primary and permanent teeth, as well as the treatment of dental trauma in children. Aesthetic pediatric dentistry is another part of his practice. For children who cannot be treated in a standard clinical setting, Dr.
