CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Kılınç's practice is the diagnosis and treatment of metabolic disease. This includes the assessment and management of prediabetes and diabetes, as well as care for people living with obesity. In the area of endocrine conditions, she treats pituitary diseases, including diabetes insipidus, and thyroid diseases.

Dr. Kılınç also manages a range of general internal medicine conditions. These include hypertension, anemia, gastroenteritis and other digestive system disorders. Chronic disease management and geriatric health are further areas of her work, with attention to the way several long-term conditions may interact in the same patient, particularly in older adults.
