CLINICAL FOCUS

Sevim Korkmaz's listed areas of expertise are physical medicine and rehabilitation, spine health, physiotherapy, rehabilitation, mobility problems, functional recovery and spine-related conditions. In practice, this means working with patients whose ability to move, sit, stand or walk has been affected, and supporting them in regaining function through structured, supervised therapy.

Rehabilitation programs of this kind are generally delivered in stages, beginning with an assessment of movement, strength and current limitations, followed by an individually planned course of exercises and therapy sessions. The goal is functional recovery, understood as a gradual improvement in everyday activities rather than a single intervention.
