CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Ördekçi's work is centred on the hospital laboratory rather than on direct bedside treatment. In clinical microbiology this involves the identification of bacteria and other microorganisms in patient samples and the interpretation of results that inform infection diagnosis and antimicrobial choice.

Her published work reflects these interests. Titles include a longitudinal follow-up of quantitative SARS-CoV-2 anti-spike total antibodies in health care professionals, a study of antiphospholipid antibody presence in COVID-19 patients, molecular characterization of carbapenem-resistant Enterobacteriaceae, investigation of the ST131...
