CLINICAL FOCUS

A significant part of Dr. Aksu's practice is joint replacement surgery. He performs hip replacement and knee replacement surgery for patients whose joint damage limits mobility and daily activity and for whom non-surgical measures are no longer sufficient.

Dr. Aksu also treats disorders of the upper limb, including shoulder surgery and elbow surgery, and disorders of the foot and ankle that may require surgical correction. His practice further includes pediatric orthopedics, addressing musculoskeletal conditions in children, as well as wound care and the treatment of movement disorders from an orthopedic perspective.
