CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Kayalar's clinical work centers on anesthesia care, anesthesiology and reanimation, and intensive care medicine. In anesthesia care, the anesthesiologist assesses the patient before a procedure, reviews existing medical conditions and medications, and plans the type of anesthesia considered appropriate for the planned intervention and the individual patient.

Reanimation and intensive care medicine address patients whose condition requires close monitoring and support of vital functions. This may include patients recovering from major surgery and patients with acute medical conditions that need continuous observation. In this setting, care is typically delivered by a team, and the anesthesiologist and intensive care physician works alongside surgeons and other specialists.
