CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. İkizoğlu provides newborn follow-up, newborn screening tests and treatment of neonatal jaundice, as well as well-child follow-up for infants and older children. He evaluates and manages infant colic, lactose intolerance in infants, and iron deficiency and anemia in children.

A further area of his work is the diagnosis and treatment of pediatric infectious diseases, including upper respiratory tract infections in children. He also sees children with PFAPA syndrome, a condition characterized by recurrent episodes of fever, in whom the pattern of symptoms is reviewed to guide diagnosis and management.
