CLINICAL FOCUS

A substantial part of Dr. Taş's work involves patients with neurological and neuromuscular conditions. She has a clinical interest in Parkinson's rehabilitation and in movement disorders treatment, where rehabilitation programs are generally aimed at supporting mobility, balance and independence in daily life alongside the medical management provided by other specialists.

Dr. Taş also has an interest in robotic rehabilitation, in which device-assisted training is used as part of a broader, therapist-guided program, and in pediatric rehabilitation, where treatment is adapted to a child's age, developmental stage and family situation.
