CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Tuğ's work is endocrine surgery, in particular thyroid surgery. He evaluates patients with thyroid disease for whom an operation is being considered, reviews existing imaging and laboratory findings, and discusses whether surgery is appropriate and what it would involve. Within the same field, he manages other endocrine surgical conditions that fall under general surgery.

Dr. Tuğ also treats gallbladder disease, including cholecystitis, and performs abdominal wall repairs for inguinal hernia and umbilical hernia. His breast surgery practice includes breast reconstruction and surgery for gynecomastia. In addition, he undertakes colorectal surgery and is involved in wound care, which is relevant for patients with wounds that are slow to heal or that require surgical attention.
