CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Gülsoy's clinical focus is diagnostic imaging. In ultrasonography, images are produced with sound waves and no ionizing radiation; further information about renal ultrasonography is available on this site. Computed tomography uses X-rays to produce cross-sectional images of the body, and magnetic resonance imaging uses magnetic fields and radio waves to produce detailed cross-sectional images without ionizing radiation.

Breast disease imaging is a further area of his expertise. Mammography is an X-ray examination of the breast used in screening and in the assessment of symptoms, and it may be complemented by ultrasonography or magnetic resonance imaging when additional information is needed. Dr. Gülsoy reports these examinations and, where appropriate, compares them with earlier imaging to assess changes over time.
