CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Güngör's clinical focus is diagnostic imaging. This includes the interpretation of imaging studies requested by referring physicians and the preparation of radiological reports that describe the findings in a structured way. Radiological interpretation involves reviewing images for features that may be relevant to a patient's symptoms or to a specific question raised by the treating doctor, noting both normal and abnormal...

Image-based assessment can be part of many stages of care. It may help clarify a diagnosis, contribute to planning further tests or treatment, and support follow-up after therapy. The usefulness of an imaging report depends on the clinical context in which it is read, so Dr. Güngör's assessments are intended to be considered by the treating clinician together with the patient's history and other results.
