CLINICAL FOCUS

A central part of Dr. Eren's work concerns stroke and the preventive treatments that aim to reduce the risk of a first or recurrent stroke. This involves assessing a patient's history and risk factors, reviewing existing imaging and previous treatments, and discussing which protective measures may be appropriate for the individual.

Dr. Eren also evaluates and treats a range of other neurological conditions. These include migraine and other forms of headache, dizziness, trigeminal neuralgia and epilepsy. In the field of cognitive disorders, he assesses patients with dementia and Alzheimer's disease.
