CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Çelik's clinical work centers on anesthesiology. In general terms, this specialty covers the assessment of a patient before anesthesia, the selection and administration of an anesthetic approach suited to the planned procedure and the patient's medical history, and continuous monitoring of the patient during and immediately after the procedure.

His second area of focus is reanimation care. This refers to the care of patients who require close monitoring and support of vital functions, for example following a procedure or during a period of critical illness. The level and duration of such care depend on the patient's clinical situation and are determined by the treating team. Dr.
