CLINICAL FOCUS

A large part of Dr. Candaner's practice involves teeth that have been damaged or weakened. This includes fractured teeth, which may result from trauma, wear or an existing weakness in the tooth, and enamel loss, in which the outer protective layer of the tooth becomes thinner or worn away.

Dr. Candaner also manages root infections, where bacteria have reached the pulp or the tissues around the root. Endodontic treatment in these cases is directed at removing the infected tissue, cleaning and sealing the root canal system and then restoring the tooth.
