CLINICAL FOCUS

As an emergency physician, Dr. Ay evaluates patients presenting with trauma and other time-sensitive conditions. His areas of expertise include environmental emergencies, among them drowning and acute hypoxia, as well as airway obstruction, where prompt recognition and stabilization of breathing are central to care.

Within his Sports Medicine interest, Dr. Ay focuses on sports traumatology, particularly knee injuries and joint injuries sustained during physical activity. In the emergency setting this typically involves a clinical examination of the affected joint, a review of any available imaging and initial management of acute injuries, followed by guidance on further evaluation or referral where this is indicated.
