CLINICAL FOCUS

The clinical work of Dr. Karataş covers the main areas of diagnostic nuclear medicine. She performs and interprets SPECT imaging and PET imaging, two functional imaging methods that use small amounts of radiopharmaceuticals to show how organs and tissues are working rather than only how they look. She also carries out scintigraphy, a group of nuclear imaging studies used to evaluate the function of specific organs.

In addition to diagnostic imaging, Dr. Karataş provides radioiodine therapy, a nuclear medicine treatment that uses radioactive iodine. Whether a nuclear medicine study or treatment is appropriate depends on the individual clinical situation, the referring physician's question and the findings of other examinations.
