CLINICAL FOCUS

Dr. Gündüz evaluates and cares for children with kidney-related and rheumatologic health concerns, in addition to providing general pediatric care. Her nephrology practice is reflected in her published work, which addresses topics such as the regulation of blood pressure in children and the mechanisms of hypertension, the antenatal management and long-term follow-up of...

In pediatric rheumatology, her co-authored research includes a study of circulating endothelial microparticles in children with familial Mediterranean fever (FMF), and she has published on the effects of steroid therapy on carnitine levels. Her general pediatric publications include a case report on transverse myelitis due to measles.
