CLINICAL FOCUS

The core of Dr. Kavcar's practice is pediatric care, covering the general health of infants, children and adolescents. This includes child health evaluation, in which the child's history, growth, development and presenting symptoms are reviewed together with any existing test results, and a clinical examination is carried out.

Dr. Kavcar also lists molecular medicine among his areas of expertise, which reflects his earlier observership in this field. In a pediatric setting, this background may inform how he approaches questions about laboratory findings and the interpretation of test results, although any decision about further investigation is made on a case-by-case basis and in discussion with the family.
